RE-ORGANIZATION OF THE POLICE-AN IMPOR TANT BILL - In the Board of Common Council this evening, an important bill, proposed by John L. Smith, Esq., of the Seventh Ward, will probably be considered, and it is thought will be passed, with some amendments not effecting its general character. Being an act of much interest to the chizens of Washington, we have procured a copy. and give the sub tance of it below, in advance of the usual publication by the Corporation news

It provides that by June 25th the Coancils shall elect from the Justices of the Peace of the county a police magnitrate for each waid, who shall perf ra all the duties in his ward. WASHINGTON AT DAY BREAK .- Rise from your couches, ye sluggards; go forth on a flae morning and look at your city, while its inhabitants are nearly all asleep. Far away in the east the horizon is colored with a reddish hue from the sun " behind the scenes," casting a glow upon the clouds above the trees and houses and public buildings below, which is truly grand. But who is up at this time to see this sublime scene. Scarcely one person is me in a long walk, and he (for never is it a woman) is plodding on to his labor. You look at the dwellings to see if there is any life in them. The stately mansion is cold and cheerless, but turn your eyes to the lowly cot, and smoke is making its lively way up into the sombre clouds. The "gude wife" cooking breakfast for her husband, so that he may begin his work in time; and if you peer into the cabin you will see some happy, healthy children, playing about the floor, perhaps a faithful dog ,there book companion." That early smoke is an unerring sign of industry; while its absence, be it in hall or hovel, is significant of the reverse. To the westward all is darkness, or what might be called morning twilight; to the north, the same; to the south, a few streaks of light; but to the east, a rising glory. Altogether the surrounding view is most in spiring, while the fresh, bracing breeze, stirs one's blood and makes the limbs move with a vigorous and health-promoting motion, while the appetite begins to sharpen. Presently the rays of the sun slightly lightens the whole sky, the eastern dome of the Capitol brightens, and, when "Yonder comes the glorious king of day

Rejoicing in the east," and Sol fully appears, that same side of the Capitol is turned into silver. A few persons begin to move about, the smoke rises from the lordly mansions carts, wagons, and other vehicles rumble through the streets, you return with lively step, after taking a cool draught of water at the Capitol fountain, and look over the awakening city, and then-a besteak, a broiled chicken, a bowl of coffee, &c., &c. are, in the polite language of the day, "not hard to

FUNERAL OF A FIREMAN. - Yesterday afternoon the Northern Liberties and Franklin Fire Compa nies followed to the grave the remains of Alexander Forrest, late an officer of the first named company, the members of which turned out in immense num bers to pay the last token of respect to his memory. The Franklin also paraded largely, and many friends of the deceased, not firemen, filled up the lengthy cortege. Posperi's band was engaged for the occasion, and played appropriate strains in their usual talented manner. The procession moved through the Avenue to the Congressional Cemetery, where the body was interred with solemn ceremonies, the Rev. A. G. Corothers, of the Fifth Presbyterian Church, officiating. The hearse was attended by eight pall-bearers, dressed in the uniform of the Northern Liberties, and the procession was in charge of Messrs. John Goedard, Jr., and E. G. Evans Marshals, also in the Northern Liberties dress. The banners were in mourning, and altogether the procession made an imposing appearance. Returning the Northern Liberties escorted the Franklin members to their engine house, soon after which both companies were dismissed.

MAKE A NOTE OF IT .- Persons going to Baltimore had as well "make a note of it," that on landing from the ears they will find "Murphy's New Depot House," near by, where a short snack may be had when in a hurry, and a good meal at leisure. His eatings, &c., are of the best, but his sugar sured hams beat all that kind of article yet produced for tenderness and sweetness. Further down into the city you will find, near the Centre Market, Mr. P. Reilly's Hetel, where every thing in season is furnished to the hungry and thirsty that can accommo date, and satisfy the most fastidious tastes. The advertisements of both of those popular Baltimore caterers will be found in the Star.

AN AGED COLORED WOMAN.-The Union says "There is a black woman residing not far from the Long (Potomac) Bridge who, it is said, is upwards of one hundred years old. She was born in Fair ax or Prince William county, Va., and her descendants children, grand, great-grand, and great-great-grand children-number one hundred and thirty. The old woman's mental faculties are seemingly unimpaired, but her physique is weak and trembling. She says she knew Master George Washington and Master Thomas Jefferson well.

CASTING THE MASSIVE CYLINDER .- The workingmen of the foundry at the Navy Yard, succeeded on Saturday in casting the immense cylinder for the steamer Fulton in fine style. It weighs twenty thou-and pounds, is tourteen feet in length, and fifty two feet in offam-ter. Two previous attempts to make the casting failed, it will be remembered. The job is considered " excellently well done."

THE BALL TO NIGHT .- In the absence of all other amusements this evening, lovers of the dance and the bright scenes of the ball room, can be delightfully accommodated with a substitute at the interesting ocial ball of the Island Friendship Club, The man agers have made ample arrangements for a pleasant night, and the beauty of the Island will be present.

"The bright and youthful dancers meet, With laughing lips and winged feet; And golden locks come flashing by, Like sudden surshine through the sky."

STABLES BURNT .- Last night about midnight, fire broke out in a stable belonging to Justice Drury, in the First Ward, which was almost destroyed. The work of an incendiary.

An individual in female attire was tried and convicted as a woman, in the Schoharie N. Y. Circuit, after having served for some months as a female servant in a hotel. Be ween the Schoharie jail and the Albany penitentiary, she had no opportunity to shave; and a thriving beard led, upon her arrival at the latter ock-up, a few days ago, to the discovery that she was a man.

Murder and Great Excitement.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 7 .- Covington, on the opposite side of the river, is the scene of intense excitement among the Americans and Germans, growing out of the brutal murder of a small child by a German whose name we have not learned. The little boy, as we learn, called the German an "Old Dutchman," whereupon he latter attacked the boy and killed him in the street. The murderer was promptly arrested, an : threats have been made that the jail would be attacked to-night by a mob, with a view of executing summary vengeance. First of the New Sugar Crop. &c. NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 4, 1854,-The first lot of new sugar was brought to the city yesterday, and was sold at five cents. Our cotton market is moderately active for the season, but prices have further given way. The sales to-day foot up about three thousand bales, mostly at a decline of ore-eight cent from previous prices.

Quite a panic has been apparent among the flour dealers for a day or two past, and prices have declined full a dollar and a quarter per barrel. We now quote good Ohio at $6.25 per barrel. Rice is in fair request at 6 tc. for fair quality. Our coffee market is dull, and prices are nominal.

Great Democratic Mass Meeting in Pittsburg. Pennsylvania. PITTSBURG, Oct. 7 -A great and enthusiastic democratic mass meeting assembled in this city this evening, in the large lot around the American Hotel. The Hon. Wm. Wilkins was elected Presi dent, and on his taking the chair he proceeded to speak for more than an hour, sustaining the principles of the Nebraska bill, and glorifying the action of the Government in the Greytown DR. NATHAN SMITH LINCOLN has affair. He denounced in burning language the doctrines of the Know Nothings, and said of Messrs Corcoran & Biggs. Having been for seve their success would bring disgrace and ruin with much warmth; and continuing in an elo-constitution guarantee civil and religious liberty. He then referred to the patriotic services of foreigners in the war of the revolution, and in the late war with Mexico. He argued that if the Know Nothings succeeded, no religious sect would be safe-the next after the Catholic the Hebrew would be proscribed, then probably, the Unitarians, and following them the Methodists, and God only knows who next. No ordinary crisis, he said, with his age and his infirmities would have brought him before the people; but his devotion to the institutions and the welfare of his country imperatively demanded of him that he should raise his feeble voice against such dangerous and iniquitous principles as were proclaimed by these alling themselves Know Nothings.

The venerable speaker, completely exhausted, closed his speech smidst the most enthus!tic and deafening cheers. Judge Shaler followed after him, and is now seaking. Messrs McCandless, Black and others are yet to speak.

Large Mass Meeting at Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 7.- The Whigs of this city are holding a mass meeting this evening in the State House yard. The meeting is well attended, and thus far everything has gone on harmoniously and with more than ordinary spirit. Everything betokens a spirited canvass at he approaching election.

Judge Pollock is now addressing the meeting, and his remarks appear to inspire his hearers with great confidence in the success of their favorite candidates. On being presented to the audience he was received most enthusiastically He delivered a long and eloquent speech defining his position, and opposed the Nebraska iniquity and other acts of President Pierce's administration. The constitution he made his platform, and he would accord to every one the liberty of worshiping according to the dictates of his own conscience; and whilst he yielded this in all sincerity to others, he claimed the same right for himself. He repelled the slanders made against him, which asserted that his opinions were contrary to the rights guaranteed by the constitution, and concluded by opposing any division of the school fund.

The meeting, after being addressed by other peakers, adopted strong anti-Nebraska res-
